

Ted Boling Quoted in E&E News—NEPA Reviews Moving Faster Under Biden

Partner Ted Boling was quoted in "NEPA Reviews Moving Faster Under Biden," an article in E&E News, on federal agencies issuing decisions on infrastructure permits faster than average.

"They seemed to be operating with greater efficiency," said Ted, who led the Trump rewrite of National Environmental Policy Act rules. "A transition year is always topsy-turvy, but there does seem to be timeliness of particular infrastructure development."

"What are they focusing on? Where are they applying the limited resources?" asked Ted, who represents clients in renewable energy and resource development, according to a bio. Ted has also worked at the Interior Department and the White House Council on Environmental Quality.

"Everyone wants to see more resources, but it's really more a question of allocation of time and people," said Ted.
