

Matthew Bernstein Quoted in Law360—Patent Litigation Trends To Watch In 2023

Partner Matthew Bernstein was quoted in "Patent Litigation Trends To Watch In 2023," an article in Law360,* regarding how patent cases are assigned and ownership of patent plaintiffs are set to continue commanding the attention of the patent world in 2023.

Meanwhile, attorneys will be monitoring whether the outrage that has greeted Judge Connolly's orders from some patent owners starts reshaping where patent suits are filed. Information about their litigation funding and ownership is "something that plaintiffs typically are very much not interested in providing," said Matt.

The disclosure rules apply only in Judge Connolly's courtroom, not all of Delaware, but if they remain in effect, or possibly are adopted by the district's other judges, "I suspect there are going to be some patent owners who are unwilling to file cases in Delaware, so that's something to keep an eye on," he said.

Read the full article on Law360.*

*Subscription-based publication

Contact

Matthew Bernstein

Partner

MBernstein@perkinscoie.com 858.720.5721

Explore more in

Patent Litigation