Investigations & Enforcement: A Former Federal Prosecutor's Perspective

Partner Barak Cohen will speak on the following topics during a lunch and learn session at the Cannabis Industry Journal's Cannabis Quality Conference and Expo.

- Why has the U.S. Department of Justice generally refrained from investigating and prosecuting white-collar offenses that involve the cannabis industry, and why is this likely to change in the near future?
- What can companies in the cannabis industry do proactively to minimize enforcement by the federal government for white-collar offenses?
- What can you expect if your company becomes the target of a federal investigation for alleged white-collar offenses?
