Federal Cannabis Descheduling Bill Needs More Clarity

The third version of the Marijuana Opportunity Reinvestment and Expungement, or MORE, Act was introduced on May 28.

Most importantly, this is a descheduling bill, and descheduling is the only way in which we comprehensively address the social justice inequities that exist and the federal-state conflict that persists in the cannabis industry.

Although potentially a boost to the nation's growing cannabis industry, the draft bill contains numerous gaps that are problematic from a business perspective.
