

Western States Continue To Shape US Privacy Landscape: Colorado CPA and California CPRA

The Colorado attorney general's office sent shockwaves throughout the privacy world on September 30, 2022, when it published its proposed Colorado Privacy Act (CPA) draft rules (Draft Rules). The Draft Rules are complex and comprehensive; at 38 pages of single-spaced text, they are longer than the CPA itself. The Draft Rules are accompanied by a proposed timeline for stakeholder meetings and a public hearing.

Coming on the heels of this announcement, on October 10, California announced that it will hold meetings on October 21 and October 22 to discuss "possible adoption or modification of the text [of the draft California Privacy Rights Act (CPRA) regulations]."

Below we outline and analyze some of the key provisions of the Draft Rules and call out certain differences between the Colorado Draft Rules and the CPRA draft regulations released in May.

Click here to read the full update.

Authors

Peter Hegel

Counsel

PHegel@perkinscoie.com 312.324.8683

Explore more in

Privacy & Security

Blog series

Perkins on Privacy

Perkins on Privacy keeps you informed about the latest developments in privacy and data security law. Our insights are provided by Perkins Coie's Privacy & Security practice, recognized by Chambers as a leading firm in the field.

View the blog