

In the wake of the SEC's new rule requiring prompt disclosure of cybersecurity incidents, incident response (IR) teams have asked how they should modify IR plans to promote compliance with the new rule.

We have summarized the SEC's new rules here and discussed some of the nuances of materiality determinations here. In a separate article, we provide a detailed breakdown of how the new reporting rule affects IR teams and how covered companies can organize IR plans to incorporate timely materiality assessments and disclosures when necessary.

Authors

David Aaron

Senior Counsel

DAaron@perkinscoie.com

Explore more in

Privacy & Security

Blog series

Perkins on Privacy

Perkins on Privacy keeps you informed about the latest developments in privacy and data security law. Our insights are provided by Perkins Coie's Privacy & Security practice, recognized by Chambers as a leading firm in the field. Subscribe ?

View the blog