U.S. Food Tech Regulation: Demystifying the Pathway to Successful Submissions

Brian P. Sylvester spoke in Shanghai at the China International Food Safety & Quality Conference. Brian's session covered the latest developments in U.S. food tech regulation and discussed pathways to successful submissions. The event annually convenes global thought leaders including officials from the FDA, USDA, European Food Safety Authority, and China National Center for Food Safety Risk Assessment alongside industry executives, technologists, and academics.
