

Check out this interview by Allison Handy with Highspot General Counsel Matt Boisen on the sidelines of the ABA Spring Meeting earlier this year for a wide-ranging discussion, including the growing use of generative AI and legal tech, collaborating with outside counsel on strategic matters, and managing a demanding legal department.

Matt explained how deeply understanding Highspot's business is also critical to his success as the fast-growing software company's GC. Allison and Matt's conversation also covered evolving legal trends, including privacy and the never-ending talent war...

Explore more in

Corporate Law

Blog series

Public Chatter

Public Chatter provides practical guidance—and the latest developments—to those grappling with public company securities law and corporate governance issues, through content developed from an in-house perspective.

View the blog