

Well, the SEC's registration filing fees keep going up. The good news is that this year's 3.7% increase is much less than last year's nearly 34% increase.

The SEC recently announced an increase in its registration fees from $147.60 to $153.10 per million dollars of securities registered. The new fee rate went into effect on October 1, 2024.

Authors

Benjamin Dale

Associate

BDale@perkinscoie.com 206.359.3377

Blog series

Public Chatter

Public Chatter provides practical guidance—and the latest developments—to those grappling with public company securities law and corporate governance issues, through content developed from an in-house perspective.

View the blog