Upcoming Sessions

02.20.2025: Navigating the Patchwork of State Employment Laws: Paid Family and Medical Leave & Worker Classification. Due to the lack of congressional action on key issues affecting employees, many state legislatures have decided not to wait and have enacted their own laws on a wide range of topics. This resulting patchwork of state laws makes full compliance difficult for the multi-jurisdictional employer. In this session, we will cover two particularly important areas of state law – paid family and medical leave, and the proper classification of workers – and will provide some guidance on best practices for policy development and enforcement.

03.20.2025: Navigating FDA and USDA regulatory pathways applicable to food tech innovations — namely, precision fermentation, cultured (lab grown) meat, and molecular farming. We'll provide timely insights into recent and evolving developments at both the FDA and USDA, including anticipated industry guidance and rulemaking and likely litigation on the horizon.

04.17.2025: Avoiding SEC Scrutiny: How Companies Can Navigate the Risks of “AI Washing”. With AI increasingly transforming business operations, the manner in which companies present and describe their AI capabilities to attract customers and investors is growing more critical. The SEC has recently sharpened its focus on potential misrepresentations in this area, a practice known as "AI washing." Our team offers an overview of the SEC's recent actions addressing AI washing, detailing recent enforcement measures, available defenses, and key insights for businesses to reduce the risk of SEC scrutiny.

06.18.2025: Best practices on preserving and securing insurance coverage for claims, including demand letters, lawsuits, subpoenas, and circumstances which later may give rise to a claim.
